Reflections

“The Joy of Living”

Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all. Both riches and honour come of thee, and thou reignest over all; and in thine hand is power and might; and in thine hand it is to make great, and to give strength unto all. Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name.

1 Chronicles 29: 11 - 13

King James Bible

One of the highest places you can get to is to be independent of the good opinion of other people.

Choose to be in close proximity to people who are empowering, who see the greatness in you, who feel connected to God, and who live a life that gives evidence that Spirit has found a celebration through them.

Wayne Dyer

Everyday Wisdom for Success

Inspiration n.: From the late Latin: inspiratio, from Latin. inspiratus pp. inspirare to blow into or upon, to breathe into; in, on and, to breathe.

1. originally, (a) to breathe or blow upon or into; (b) to infuse (life, etc. into) by breathing.
2. to have an animating effect upon; to influence, stimulate or impel; especially, to stimulate or impel to some creative or effective effort.
3. to cause, guide, communicate or motivate by divine influence; as, God inspired the Scriptures.
4. to arouse or produce (a thought or feeling); as, kindness inspires love.

Websters Unabridged (2nd) Edition,

New 20th Century Dictionary

In a world that is filled with detailed news of incredible accounts of war, “rogue” countries attempting to annihilate their own unwanted citizens, to constant media reports of scandal, widespread dishonesty and murder in countries, cities, families and recently, even in churches, it could appear that there is little in our human world that one can look to for some kind of personal or even more universal inspiration.

The great teachers of the Inner Way say the real/genuine experience of inspiration, personal or even more universal, is something we must seek. It exists around us everywhere, in nature, in the lives of our loved ones, indeed even in our life if we are willing to look and/or to be open or receptive to it. The major difficulty in finding inspiration I suspect, emerges when we get news or information from others or from the very broad world community that’s interpreted in a very limited way or presented in a negative manner. We can do little about what we hear from the outer world. Yet, we can choose to view the information we receive from more than one viewpoint. Obviously, it’s an internal decision, indeed.

The one major area of our human nature that we have control over is our thought. We look at our life and the lives of those we know and care about from inside ourselves. Current brain research talks about the multitudinous variety of ways we interpret every kind of information to ourselves. Whether we realize it or not we choose to see it in a personal or specific way. When we add cultural filters, family viewpoints, religious persuasions, racial constructs, let alone what scientists would tell us or have us believe to be specifically true, each arena/area offers profound colorations of our views of our own life.

The great spiritual teachers such as Jesus Christ, the Buddha and others, say we are in charge of our thoughts! Since I, also, believe we are, we can choose how to look at the various circumstances of our life through our choice of words, our internal view or understanding of a situation without blinders or restrictions. However it takes constant practice and more practice to see beyond any one appearance, viewpoint or belief.

Let’s consider an example:

Job loss. What is the “good news” here? Meaningful, focused and intentional, hopefully rewarding work is absolutely necessary in our lives. It supports us, our families and helps us to realize desired goals. A job loss can interrupt our financial flow and obviously can create many serious hardships in every area of our lives.

How then can we find inspiration? How do we uncover something that lifts us beyond our sense of misfortune and difficulty? Where do we or how can we find hope for what is or appears to be a significant loss?

1. Seek the comfort and caring of people, family, friends, acquaintances or professional people. Thoughtful talking with positive and professional people releases fears and helps us to know we are not alone. It gives clear perspective and tends to reveal that we have positive options, even when we feel differently (negative, fearful).

2. Give thanks for what we do have ... an apartment, a car, a home, a spouse, friend or loved ones who can be there for us. Gratitude allows us to see what we already have in our life and thus what is readily available. It enables us to look at all the good, the pluses already in our life. When we look at the famous example of a half empty glass, we choose to see it as half full or half empty. It's an extremely important perception.

3. Focus on the positive; a probable job offering, or a new opportunity. We have learned that what we focus upon expands. So to find inspiration let us look for the possible solutions, positive outcomes for our searches for gainful employment. Even if we do not find immediate work, a favorable attitude is certainly easier to live with, for ourselves as well as family and those who know us. A significant point is this: We need to stay open to life's pulse. When we do, we truly remain in the flow of opportunity. If we stay negative, we internally close off and the various doors of life's opportunities remain closed.

On a larger, more expanded scale, we may not be able to stop war or poverty even though we join community outreach and social reform groups that promise action in government and in the society. If we look about us, in our own society there are thousands of worthy charities and dedicated men/women and children focusing on, inspiring, maybe even noble outreaches. If this group effort inspires us to action in a useful and really viable manner, then I suggest to those who feel called to serve such groups, churches, or social and community efforts to commit to do so. It's a most valuable insight, I suspect that can help us overcome the hurt, anger and sense of loss that a job change or removal can cause.

With inspiration we allow ourselves to be open to life, or spirit in spite of all contrary appearances. We must learn to see that all men, women and children are connected. If we look deeply, we can see the handiwork of God in even the most difficult of circumstances. But it requires us to look or look again to see miracles, ever possible miracles beyond tragedy, trauma or even death.

Living an inspired life is an internal intention. It is very hard to the core work to face criticism, personal and/or verbal attack from professional people, family or friends. When we see suffering in a community devastated by natural disasters, floods, earthquakes, heat waves or the ravages of disease that cannot be stopped, it requires a very deep courage, indeed, to find something in the experience that is within it to enable us to see a larger good or Divine purpose. Yet we know that communities rebuild after incredible destruction such as floods, hurricanes, tornadoes or even a terrifying prospect of death from an infection from disease such as the dreaded Ebola virus. When we find strength to focus on what we can do and not on what we can't, we discover the deeper meaning of inspiration.

Many, many years ago, a dear friend lay dying from an inoperable brain cancer. Her words inspired me then and still do to this day. "I do not know why I have brain cancer but I want my two children and my husband and friends to remember me for my love for them and how I have shown it, rather than how I died." She passed away now 40 years ago. And her words have been an inspiration to me across the years as I have stood with, held prayer vigils and supported hundreds of people who wanted to be remembered for courage, living for a meaningful purpose in a church or their personal community of choice until their last breath.

The challenge of tapping into inspiration is that it requires of each of us to look beyond appearances, beyond the surface. Hardships, even serious or severe hardships, do not define us. They shape us to be revealed as the man or woman we are from the inside out, a child of the

A Pause That Rejuvenates

“A Pause That Rejuvenates” is a book of inspirational stories meant to uplift and support the soul on our journey home to Source. The stories shared in this book are examples Mary has included in her lectures over the past thirty years of her ministry.

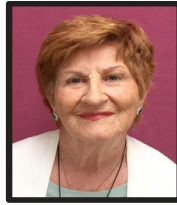

Sometimes our life takes an unexpected turn, but what can manifest before us maybe a miracle. This is a book of miracles. It is designed so one can open the book anywhere and be reminded of who and what we are. With Mary’s compilation of these stories, one can pause, refresh, and soothe oneself with the power of the Spirit within.

Rev. Mary Moore is an author, workshop facilitator, and inspirational speaker with over forty years of experience. She has spoken before groups around the United States on healing the body, mind and spirit. She knows and has experienced the power of self-healing, and has assisted many others to experience healing in their life’s journey.

Mary began her professional studies in Unity teachings and Science of Mind as a young adult, and continued education with Dr. Raymond Charles Barker, Dr. Eric Pace, Dr. Stuart Grayson, Louise Hay and David Hawkins M.D.,Ph.D. Their teachings and influence helped to form her philosophy and basic spiritual foundation. Her life-long interest in the Eastern and the Western Studies culminated in a Bachelor’s degree in Religious Studies from the University of South Florida. Rev. Moore was ordained as a minister in 1988 and has been a licensed massage therapist. Additionally, she worked in the field of education for over two decades.

THE SEVEN RAYS

with Rev. Theresa Giordani

Saturday, October 30, 2021

Astro-Insights by Carol (CJ) Bonni

Before I begin to shine the spotlight on Virgo and Libra I have to ask this question:

Regarding the last Astro-Insight essay, what happened to Capricorn? Pluto has been hanging out in Capricorn for the past few years. Could it be that Capricorn fell under the dark and mysterious influence of Pluto and just wanted to hide out for a while? Well that's my theory anyway. Or, maybe, just maybe – Capricorn just slipped my mind. So sorry.

* * * * *

Please Note that the energy of the New Moon affects all of us, regardless of our Sun sign.

New Moon for September occurs on September 6, 2021 at 8:52 PM EDT at 14 degrees of Virgo. The chart for the New Moon set up for Saint Petersburg occurs in Virgo's natural house, the sixth. This enhances all of Virgo's best qualities: clear thinking, analytical introspection, keen discernment and helping others. The focus is on health and nutrition.

Neptune is still in its own sign of Pisces where it will continue to reside for another few years. It is opposite the New Moon. From this position Neptune is sending inspiration, most often through dreams and meditation. It enhances creativity and compassion. It softens the sharp edges of Virgo.

Uranus in the earth sign Taurus provides sudden flashes of insight. It is forming a supportive aspect to the New Moon so be on the lookout for that flash of insight this month, which could happen when you least expect it.

Mars is also in earthy practical Virgo, adding some fiery energy to Virgo's calm and steady nature.

Mercury and Venus are both in Libra at this New Moon, urging us to lighten up. Pick the thought that makes you happy and run with it!

New Moon for October occurs on October 6 at 7:05 AM EDT at 13 degrees of Libra. The Lunation chart is set for St. Petersburg Florida where the Sun, Moon and Mars, all at 13 degrees Libra, are just peeking over the horizon, which makes this a very powerful New Moon for our location.

A new moon is always about new beginnings. The emphasis this month is on sharing resources. Retrograde Mercury in Libra is dynamically connected to Pluto in Capricorn, suggesting that conversations about how resources are to be shared will likely be contentious and without immediate resolution. This situation will improve when Mercury resumes direct motion on October 18th.

Mercury in Libra forms a supportive aspect to Jupiter in air sign Aquarius, which helps us to widen our perspective. This will help in negotiations.

Charming Venus, ruler of Libra, is in the deep and intense water sign Scorpio and can provide a buffer between Mercury and Pluto. Venus is aided in this endeavor by Neptune in Pisces' compassionate nature.

With both Lights plus the planets Mercury and Mars all in Libra we are thinking of ways to be equitable and reasonable in all our dealings. The Libra energy inclines toward harmony and fairness.

Another aspect of Libra is about partnerships of all kinds. This month there will be energy conducive to discussing forming a partnership or dissolving a partnership. In either case, remember it's all about being fair and equitable. Remember that Mercury which defines how we communicate, is retrograde and squared by Pluto, so all contracts (marriage, business partnerships, e.g.) will need to be fully understood by all parties before signing anything.

For insights about how the September and October Lunations affect each Sun sign, turn the page. . .

Virgo – Fall is your favorite season. Now is your time to shine!

Libra – This season is your chance to do what you love most – being the peacemaker.

Scorpio – Share your deep and profound insights with those closest to you.

Sagittarius – Try something new and exciting this fall. Rich rewards await.

Capricorn – Your dry sense of humor brings much joy and laughter to others. You are a blessing in their lives.

Aquarius – This fall season brings you into closer attunement with your inner Light. Let your Light shine!

Pisces – Love + Prayer + Service = Joy. You are one with all that is.

Aries – Your courage in difficult times is an inspiration to others.

Taurus – The fall lunations awaken a renewed sense of playfulness and joy in you.

Gemini – Adventures in foreign lands beckon. It all starts with a dream.

Cancer – The Lunations this fall urge you to come out of your shell. You will be renewed and refreshed by your interactions with others.

Leo – The fall Lunations urge you to do an inner inventory and then communicate your thoughts to others who look to you for leadership.
