Reflections

Freedom Within

Rev. LeRoy Zemke

When we let freedom ring, when we let it ring from every range and every state and every city, we will be able to speed up that day when all of God's children, black men and white men, Jews and Gentiles, Protestants and Catholics will be able to join hands and ring in the words of an old negro spiritual, "Free at last, free at last! Thank God Almighty, we are free at last. Martin Luther King Jr. Speech at the Lincoln Memorial Aug 28, 1963

By knowing God one is released from all fetters.

Upanishads, Svetasvatara (Hinduism)

It is dangerous to take human freedom for granted to regard it as a prerogative rather than as an obligation, as an ultimate fact rather than an ultimate goal. It is the beginning of wisdom to be amazed at the fact of our being free.

Abraham Joshua Heschel

The Insecurity of Freedom Paradigm

Freedom: state of being free or at liberty (from confinement). The power to determine one's action without restraint. Philosophy: the power to exercise choice and make decisions without constraint from within or from without; autonomy; self determination. Emphasizes the opportunity given for the exercise of one's rights, powers, desires or the like.

In America, we mark the 4th of July as the date in 1776 when, by the signing of the Bill of Rights, we claimed for ourselves the rights of freedom, liberty, speech, the press, religion and the right to gather together (assembly). These statements became part of our national constitution and of every state in the Union.

Granting freedom by decree or law does not assure it for us, our children or our families or our nation or our world. Freedom is, in a larger context, let alone our communities, an internal state of our nature, our essential or sacred nature. While I believe deeply and profoundly that it is available to us, we have to learn now to express it, to model it, to be an example to those we say are important to us, let alone those with whom we share our lives in business, in professions, in academic, financial, religious and every form of social interaction we know.

As a spiritual quality, I believe freedom is aligned with, or may be connected to our innate power, a very deep inner sense of yearning to share who we are - again at depth. This yearning to be who we are takes on the work of an incarnation.

For example, if we say we wish to become a musician, artist, writer, doctor, dentist, gardener or landscape architect, our training or education will necessarily involve appropriate schooling and life experience to express these yearnings of our soul.

The quality of our work emerges slowly once we may decide on landscape and architecture design. We must quite seriously learn about plants, rock formation, various components of the soil, what may need to be used as materials and a variety of other matters that help us to perform our business or profession.

Information about the kind of plants, studies about nutrients, and how to create a useful as well as sustainable environment is necessary to do the work. There's also the need to learn about community environments, city codes and city requirements.

If we wish to express our freedom to create using plants and natural environments, we must prepare ourselves mentally, emotionally, educationally and spiritually. We must develop a relationship within ourselves that allows us to use our talent(s) wisely. The inner desire for freedom is to reveal our creative nature in a natural environment. We still must operate in the world of form, man made rules and regulations.

Another example illustrative of a soul yearning might be that of a graded school teacher. We love children and we want to be a positive influence in their physical and hopefully spiritual educational development and growth.

We discover that four years of college is required (beyond high school) to prepare to teach. Not only are we learning about content of courses, we must become knowledgeable about our local communities, cities, towns and states. We must learn about what's permitted in the classroom and what and how we must teach our favorite subject, be it mathematics or medicine, social justice or physical education (sports).

We may have a deep yearning to inspire, to motivate the young people with our own lives and learning. Yet we must abide by school boards, PTA's, financial agreements and increasing legal ramifications that impact the teacher, the state, the principal and the families of the children we so yearn to serve, to teach, to encourage, to discover themselves.

Thus the yearning we have for a noble profession in order to free the minds and hopefully touch the souls of the young is constricted and constrained by the world in which we live.

We ask, "What is the gift of freedom?" The answer is contained in the dilemma of all the conditions and circumstance I spoke about before.

1. Our inner and outer personal nature will shine through the many and varied difficult environments. If we are caring and kind, others will see it and many people, young and old alike, will be aware of it. So be caring, kind and as considerate as possible.

2. The outer world in which we all live (in towns and cities and states and nations) is held together by an agreed upon set of guidelines, and yes, some specific rules and regulations. In America we have the "right" to express our speech or to express our form of religion without fear of reprisal. This right then means, in my opinion, that we have to learn how to respect the attitudes and viewpoints of those who think fiercely opposite to us. It means that we can share our ideas without attacking another or becoming angry or becoming intolerant. We know that expressions of anger, seemingly justified or not, only leads to more anger. All of us now witness the violence in our world with alarm because we see that it leads to more of the same.

3. A viewpoint is a viewpoint is a viewpoint. It emerges out of a variety of life and cultural contexts such as family, religion, political views, social experience and most of all our own perception and/or interpretations.

While we each feel our viewpoint is correct, nevertheless it is essentially our idea about how to look upon and how to engage in life. I believe it is necessary to remember that viewpoints do not define who we are at depth. How many of us hold the same viewpoint about relationships, parents, our children or our friends that we had as children and in a much broader larger sense, the way the world works? Obviously all of these views have changed.

Certainly this commentary can be continued into many arenas and realms of human activity and human involvement in every aspect of life. The freedom we seek to express, I suspect, is contained in a male body or a female body (or now in a transgender body) only as the vehicle through which it is expressed.

If I say I love roses or I really love mountain scenery, does that make me “love” only roses? Or a specific mountain? Of course not. My view, internally, is important to me, but it is certainly not who I am.

In a world where multiple views are strong, often intense and conflicted, we may or may not align to those people with whom we would like to share a closer or related viewpoint. But again the viewpoint is not who we are. It can be likened to a shirt we wear and take off. The designer, color, shape is appealing but is only a “cloth covering.”

To develop inner freedom, we must become aware that to truly be who we are is a gradual and perhaps even difficult process. To stand in our truth about matters material, of human interest and expression, is one state of being allowing us certain rights. To become, however, the more awakened soul we entered this life to be, is a major work of an incarnation. It requires courage, conviction and a deep internal willingness to reveal our very heart and soul to ourselves before we are able to reveal it to the world.

We must learn to love those who think exactly opposite to us. We have humanity for the background, but each must have his own individuality and his own thought. Push the sects forward and forward till each man and woman are sects unto themselves. We must learn that differentiation is the life of thought. We have one common goal, and that is the perfection of the human soul, the god within us.

Astro – Insights for July and August

by Carol (CJ) Bonni

Overview for July:

July Full 13 Capricorn 11 @ 7:39AM. Capricorn Moon is all about traditional values (i.e. Fiddler on the Roof, singing about “tradition”), very practical, dependable and organized. Call your Capricorn friend when you need help organizing your files. Venus and Mars are still in artistic and demonstrative Leo, still dancing but at a much later degree and will move into Virgo later this month. Pluto was in Aquarius for almost 6 weeks before it retrograded back into Capricorn, giving us more opportunities to look at whatever we have left incomplete and needs to be balanced. This includes all our relationships, for example those relationships with friends, spouses, ex-spouses, business associates, and anyone else in our lives who might be looking for forgiveness.

July New Moon 24, Cancer 56 continues the theme of honoring traditional values and the sanctity of the home. Pluto in Capricorn is exactly opposite the New Moon, further stressing the importance of making these necessary and inevitable changes. The moon is very comfortable in its own sign and would prefer to stay home and enjoy the familiar comforts of home, rather than making any changes to the status quo.

Overview for August:

The most interesting thing about this month is that there are two Full Moons; The first one on August 1st, 2023 the Sun at 9, Leo 16, Full Moon 9, Aquarius 16 and the 2nd one on August 30, Sun at 7, Virgo 26, Moon at 7, Pisces 26. This doesn't happen very often and the phrase “only once in a blue moon” is a reference to this phenomenon. I will start my comments with the first Full Moon on August 1st. The Sun and Venus are both in Leo, the sign of royalty. Leo's wear the royal robes beautifully. The Full Moon is in Aquarius, a sign known for its unique individuality. There is tension under this Full Moon. Everyone feels a bit edgy.

The second Full Moon occurs on August 30. The Sun at 7, Virgo 26, Moon at 7, Pisces 26. Practical and dependable, detail oriented Virgo, opposite sensitive, compassionate Pisces, who dreams of a world without borders. These two signs which seem so different from each other, actually balance each others' energy. Another thing to watch at this time is the two agents of change, Pluto in Capricorn and Uranus in Taurus. Uranus changes happen suddenly and the effects are short lived. Pluto in Capricorn represents inevitable changes that happen slowly and the effects are long lasting. During the brief time Pluto was in Aquarius, we got a preview of the age of liberation, then Pluto re-entered Capricorn. Big Business, Big Pharma, large corporations, wherever corruption and decay exists, Pluto reminds us that we have another chance to examine where we have been hanging on to toxic people or situations that no longer serve us. It's time to let go and let your higher self guide you through the process. Growth is inevitable.

August New Moon occurs August 16 at 23, Leo 17. Venus is nearby at 18, Leo 40, and the Asteroid Juno, representing the archetype of the wife, is also in Leo. All these Leo energies are receiving stress vibes from Jupiter and Uranus, both in Taurus. When these two planets are hanging out together, they are like a couple of teenagers encouraging each other to break the rules. Jupiter always feels that he's untouchable. He's eternally optimistic. And Uranus is always willing to break the rules. Personal freedom is his motto. Jupiter is still in Taurus, adding some caution and practicality and keeping them grounded.

Here's your forecast for July and August:

Aries: Step up, step out and move ahead confident that you can do, have and be all that you ever dreamed of having. Your are specular!

Taurus: Uranus is still in Taurus, keeping you on that roller coaster. The changes are necessary to help you let go of what is no longer useful. Neptune in Pisces is providing flashes of insight and inspiration. Meditate on listening for guidance.

Gemini: If you have been asking for more fun, more adventure and some sparkle in your life be assured that your Guides have heard your prayers and they say, "Let the good times roll!"

Cancer: You have a special talent for knowing exactly what the people around you need most, more tenderness, more caring and more openness. Give all of that to yourself too.

Leo: Venus and Mars are still in your sign, still doing the tango. Your special talent is for providing entertainment and encouragement. Share your Light and your Love wherever you feel it is needed. This is your path.

Virgo: Your special talent is a willingness to provide help wherever it is needed. You delight in organizing (people always seem to need your help in this) finding snags and problems and then fixing them. The world needs more Virgos!

Libra: Your special talent is to bring harmony and balance to wherever there is conflict and chaos. You have exquisite taste and you wear it well. Surprise someone with a well-deserved hug and tell them to pass it on. Imagine what a wonderful world it would be!

Scorpio: Your special talent is the ability to detect what is hidden from view, just below the surface. You pick up clues by paying attention to people's body language. This can be a blessing, send silent blessings to everyone you meet. Blessings are returned.

Sagittarius: Your happy optimism is contagious. It touches everyone you meet. Your desire for adventure is legendary. Share your adventures either in person or online. Be a blessing to the world and you will be blessed in return.

Capricorn: You are cautious, careful and family-oriented. You believe in the old-fashioned values such as respect for your elders and obeying the rules. Smile more, laugh out loud and sing more often. This is how you bless others' lives.

Aquarius: Aquarians are the humanitarians of the Zodiac. Often seen as unpredictable, you are at your best when you are committed to a cause or an intellectual ideal.

Pisces: You are a visionary, a dreamer and an idealist. Keep dreaming of the perfect world that works for everyone and see it take shape.
