Thoughts For Transformation

A New World View

“Man is setting out to satisfy needs that mean more to him than simply nourishment and clothing. He is embarking on a rediscovery of himself. The history of man is that of his voyage toward the unknown, in search for the realization of his immortal Self, of his soul.”

Rabindranath Tagore

“Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind.”

Romans 12:2 Holy Bible

The Bible states in Genesis 1-3, “In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. The earth was without form and void, and darkness was on the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God was hovering over the face of the waters. Then God said, “Let there be light.”

In three poetically inspired verses, the opening words of one of the world’s best known sacred scriptures, we are introduced to the language surrounding the beginning of the mystery of creation. No scientist, past or present has yet found a totally accurate metaphor that profoundly speaks to the mystery. No one has referenced this question in either scientific terms or mystical images that are more exact.

Astronomy speaks of exploding galaxies, black holes, expanding and contracting nebulae and ever changing cosmic space. We are gently reminded that the origins of life are ultimately the “stuff” of sages, perhaps saints and Awakened Beings.

Every spiritual teaching has a profound and powerful cosmology from the ancient Samaritans, Egyptians and Easenes to the culture of Tibet, India and China. A seed of truth exists in each one, I suspect, in that one principle appears to hold true ... an ultimate Divine Being or Divine Impulse initiates the flow of life and triggers the spark we know as the lifestream into which human beings emerged. Whether we consciously or academically understand how it happened, we (mankind) have arrived on what we call planet earth.

When we think about reality, we are attempting to define that which is genuine or real from that which is received as unreal in our life. An Indian sage once wrote that that which is real changes not. It is the limitless light of the ancient Kabbalists, the Spirit of God which move across the face of the deep. In a word, it is Source of All that we see in form, in manifestation, in our tangible, mundane, human world, and exists behind all that is unmanifest and ever unknown as well.

To our human, perhaps here better stated as our total and complete intellectual capacity to function in the world, ultimately, reality can only be gradually (intuitively) apprehended. It can never truly be precisely language by our worldly sciences, on the mighty metaphors that emerge from art, the realm of nature or other systems of organized thought, sacred scripture or even inspired writings.

What then is a new vision, a new world view? For the purpose of this writing, it is the inner focus of the direction(s) we are choosing for our lives. As we have observed above, we are born out of the cosmic womb and contain the seeds of the Infinite within us. We ask our various religion(s) and science(s) to explain or at least give imagery to the world in which we live. We also look to religion and very often to the various spiritual systems or philosophies for revelation about our journey or our dharma, our deep inner purpose for our life.

There are many approaches to the theme of a new vision of reality (for us individually). I am suggesting something very practical and very important to aid this discovery.

1. A new year invites us to do an inventory.

Essentially that means, to sort, classify, discard and or release that which no longer is needed or serves our lives. Certainly we can do this with the tangibles such as clothes or paraphernalia surrounding our work, business, hobby or household. It's a most practical exercise because it frees us from the burden of clutter and the accumulated "stuff" of our incarnation or even across one year.

(a) We can also do an inventory of ideas, behaviors patterns of response to people, places and things in our lives that need to be examined. Do we believe in an idea of lack? Do we fear the worst about our health? Or a life situation? What about the hope that we have for a new job, work or business direction that we've put off for many reasons? Let's not forget our tendency to procrastinate and delay a decision to the future simply because we are afraid of the outcome.

(b) In this step write out, in very simple language, the behavior, beliefs, attitude about our personal selves or our lives that we may want to change, surrender or release.

(c) Be precise. Be brief. Be clear. It's most important to write down what really is essential, something we can actually do or are willing to do. This is an action step. Writing down what we wish to release helps us to objectify the goal. It aids us to focus on what's important.

(d) Remember, do not judge/criticize the attitude or behavior selected. Fear is really a way to delay what needs to be changed or at the very best, identified and discussed as something needing to be languaged! Be gently with this step!

2. Bless, honor and give thanks for every gift, grace and goodness that appears in our life. Very, very often, as we give thanks at deep internal levels of our life for what is in our life, what we need to let go of, to surrender, or release becomes easier and much of the struggle around it falls away. It quite literally fades and will disappear. As we approach this step be willing to write down what area(s) of our life that work well and flow smoothly. Again, be specific.

3. Spirit is always available for us even when we consciously disbelieve it or consistently doubt it. Any really new vision for ourselves originates out of our connection to the Infinite Presence, or Source of All Life. When we come in silence, in stillness and ask for the specific help we need to gain clarity and revelation, it unfolds.

A prayerful or affirmative way to approach this dimension of our sacred connection might be: "I am open and receptive now to a new idea or a new way to see what has blocked me before. I give thanks for this guidance and it is so."

In his essence, man is not a slave to himself, nor to the world; he is a lover. His freedom and accomplishments are in love, which is another name for perfect understanding. In this ability to understand, in this impregnation of everything that is, he is one with the Spirit that penetrates everything, and that is also the breath of the soul.

Rabindranath Tagore

You are unique as you are here and now. You are never the same. You will never be the same again. You have never before been what you are now. You will never be it again.

Swami Prajnanpad

“Mental Fitness”

with
Amanda Surratt

Sunday, January 21

12:30 – 1:30 PM

Love Offering

A Course in Miracles states, “You may believe that you are responsible for what you do, but not for what you think. The truth is that you are responsible for what you think, because it is only at this level that you can exercise choice. What you do comes from what you think.”

And yet, many of us struggle to gain mastery over our own minds; instead, we often find ourselves caught up in negative thinking, anxiety, or rumination.

In this interactive presentation, you will learn the 3 “mental muscles” that will allow you to shift the balance of power from your inner Saboteurs (your FEAR-based negative self) to your inner Sage (your LOVE-based positive self).

This scientifically based model has been validated by 500,000+ participants in over 50 countries, and it has been featured in the New York Times and Wall Street Journal. It was created by Shirzad Chamine and is known as Positive Intelligence® (also more commonly known as Mental Fitness).

Amanda Surratt is a certified Strategic Intervention Coach, a Positive Intelligence® Member Coach, a certified Reiki Master Practitioner, and an RYT200 Yoga Teacher. Additionally, she holds Certifications in Applied Positive Psychology and Positive Psychology Consulting. Her unique approach blends the pragmatism of scientifically informed methodologies with the intuition and empathy of an energy worker and healer.

12:30 - 1:45 PM

(5 PART SERIES – to be

Experience these talks packed with information. Yoga is a philosophy that may be practiced by one of any religion. The origin of yoga is intertwined with the Indian subcontinent. Hindus actually have no name for their religion. Instead, the system of beliefs, scriptures, and customs forms a complete way of life known as Sanatana Dharma: the Eternal Way. Come and learn about these fascinating topics. Each participant receives a hand-out.

January 28 The Vedas: The word means “knowledge and truth.” This ancient system was meant to keep the world going with order and harmony.

February 25 The Upanishads and The Bhagavad Gita: This high wisdom forms “the completion of The Vedas.” Why did Ghandi always carry the Gita in his pocket?

Linn Sennott has studied yoga (both the physical practice and the philosophical underpinnings) for 45 years and taught for 25. She has been on the faculty of several yoga teacher trainings. As a retired university professor, Linn is skilled at synthesizing complex material and presenting it in a readily accessible form.
